I returned to Washington on schedule and have not really had time yet to follow up on all the things that came to my attention during my trip. As I informed you upon my departure, I was exceptionally well pleased with what I found at the [REDACTED] office, and certainly have every confidence in your capable administration of our [REDACTED]

Likewise, at [REDACTED] I was most favorably impressed with the staff located there and with the work they have done to date. There is no doubt that this is going to be a fine station and while there may be a bit of gold plate scattered around the place, I am perfectly well satisfied with everything in connection with this station to date. I think I was able to help [REDACTED] with some of his problems. I visited the Los Angeles District Engineer while I was there and, while it is true that the contractor who is to move the [REDACTED] has 75 days in which to fulfill his contract, the Engineer does not believe that the contractor will use this entire time. It would appear to me that we might become operative on or about 1 March 1948. At least I think this is definite enough for our planning at the present.

It is my present plan to go to the Pacific during the early part of January and I should return prior to the first of February. Unless you think it advisable, I can see no reason why I should return to [REDACTED]. It perhaps would suffice for you to meet me at [REDACTED] on my return from the Pacific, at which time we could settle the final details of your physical movement from [REDACTED] to [REDACTED].

Please give my regards to the staff and to [REDACTED] and do not hesitate to write me about any matter at all that you may have on your mind.

Sincerely,
